

California's Position:
The state argues that Heartbeat International and Real Options:

- Advertised Abortion Pill Reversal as safe and effective despite what California says is insufficient scientific evidence.
- Misled women through false or deceptive advertising.
- Violated California's False Advertising Law and Unfair Competition Law.

The Attorney General is seeking:

- A court order preventing the organizations from making these claims.
- Civil penalties ($20 million) and other legal remedies.

Heartbeat International & RealOptions' Position:
The organizations deny the allegations and argue that Women who regret beginning a medication abortion should be informed that an option to attempt to continue the pregnancy exists. Heartbeat International & RealOptions argue that:

- Women who regret beginning a medication abortion should be informed that an option to attempt to continue the pregnancy exists.
- Progesterone has been used in obstetrics for decades and that evidence supports offering APR to women who choose it.
- California is attempting to suppress protected speech & limit information available to women.
- Their communications are protected by the First Amendment and by California laws protecting reproductive choice.

Baby Bottle Fundraiser! Thank You!

Our Baby Bottle Campaign was a tremendous success, and it's all because of faithful supporters like you! Thank you to every individual, family, church, school, and business who participated. Your generosity is helping provide compassionate medical care, practical support, and hope to women, babies, and families throughout our community.

You'll notice we've included this year's "final" campaign total —although if history has taught us anything, "final" is a relative term! Baby bottles have a way of trickling back throughout the year, and every once in a while, one even finds its way back a year (or two!) later. Whether your bottle was returned early or fashionably late, every gift represents someone choosing to invest in hope. Thank you for partnering with You Medical and helping make a lasting difference in the lives of those we serve.

DIAPERS & WIPES NEEDED

We are currently in need of newborn diapers and unscented baby wipes. Donations of these much-needed items help support the moms and families we serve through our Parenting Program.

Client Story: A Different Path

When Bethany called You Medical, she believed she was contacting an abortion provider. Her first priority was finding out how far along she was, knowing that information would play a significant role in the decision she was facing. As we explained who we are, a medical clinic that provides compassionate care, pregnancy services, and information women need to make informed decisions, she chose to keep her appointment. Upon arrival, she spoke honestly about her fears surrounding pregnancy and the difficult emotions she was carrying.

While she initially felt abortion might be her only option, she also knew she would struggle with that decision. By the end of her visit, everything had changed.

"I knew I was in the right place."

Bethany told us she was relieved and grateful that she had come to You Medical instead. After learning that You Medical is a Christ-centered ministry, she shared, "I knew I was in the right place." With the support, information, and encouragement she received, she chose to carry her baby and parent. Today, we continue to walk alongside her, connecting her with ongoing support and resources as she begins this new chapter. Sometimes, one unexpected phone call can change the course of two lives. Because of your partnership, women continue to find hope, compassionate care, and the confidence to choose life.

The People of the State of California v. Heartbeat International & Real Options

Overview of the case

The People of the State of California v. Heartbeat International & RealOptions is a lawsuit filed in September 2023 by California Attorney General Rob Bonta against Heartbeat International and Real Options Obria Medical Clinics. The case centers on Abortion Pill Reversal (APR), a protocol that uses progesterone after a woman has taken mifepristone, the first drug in a two-drug medication abortion regimen, in an attempt to continue the pregnancy. At its core, the legal dispute is not about whether medication abortion is legal; it is about whether organizations can lawfully promote Abortion Pill Reversal as a safe and effective option, and whether those claims are supported by sufficient scientific evidence.

Where the Case Stands

- The lawsuit has moved beyond initial pleadings.
- Early attempts by the Heartbeat to dismiss the case were unsuccessful.
- The litigation has proceeded through discovery and summary judgment motions.
- As of mid-2026, the case is moving toward trial on the merits, with both sides continuing to dispute the scientific evidence surrounding APR.

Why this Case Matters

The lawsuit is significant because it could shape:

- How states regulate medical and health-related claims made by pregnancy resource centers.
- The legal standards for advertising and informed consent regarding abortion-related services.
