Supreme Court Decision

Writing for the Court, Justice Neil Gorsuch emphasized that such demands can infringe on First Amendment protections, particularly the right of individuals to associate and support causes without fear of exposure or retaliation. This ruling represents a significant moment for pregnancy help organizations across the country, affirming that constitutional protections extend to those who support and serve women and families through these ministries. In its opinion, the Court made clear that government demands for confidential donor information can have a chilling effect. Even the request itself, without any public release, can discourage individuals from supporting an organization or associating with causes that may be unpopular with those in power. The concern is not only about privacy, but about the pressure such actions place on free expression and the ability to support beliefs without fear of scrutiny or retaliation.

The decision carries broad implications, not only for pregnancy resource centers but for any organization that relies on the freedom of individuals to give and engage without intimidation. It reinforces important First Amendment protections and affirms that groups have the right to challenge government actions that could suppress speech or discourage association. In doing so, the Court underscored a key principle: organizations do not have to wait until harm is fully realized to seek protection. They can take action when government overreach threatens the freedoms that allow them to operate and serve effectively.

Rare Supreme Court 9-0 Decision!

In a unanimous decision, the Supreme Court of the United States recently ruled in favor of a pregnancy resource center seeking to protect its donor information from a state subpoena. The Court's 9-0 decision allows First Choice Women's Resource Centers to challenge the request in federal court, rather than being forced to comply before defending its rights. At the heart of the case was a broad subpoena issued by the state of New Jersey requesting access to confidential donor records.

Expanding Our Reach in the Community

We are excited to share that Tri-CU Credit Union is an official pick-up and drop-off location for our Baby Bottle Fundraiser! It's especially meaningful, as it marks the first time we've had the opportunity to place a fundraiser display inside a local business rather than a church. By stepping into the marketplace, we're expanding awareness of the mission and inviting an even broader group of people to take part in supporting life-affirming care in our community. Members and visitors can easily grab a bottle, fill it and return it to the same location. It's a simple yet powerful way for individuals and families to contribute, and we're grateful to Tri-CU for opening their doors.

The Power of Quiet Faithfulness

There are many important tasks happening behind the scenes at You Medical that most people will never see or even think about. One of those is the preparation and mailing of the very newsletter you're reading right now! Recently, as a staff, we had been praying about the need for a dedicated group of volunteers to help process our newsletters each month. With the transition to monthly mailings, this became a significant and ongoing need.

At just the right time, we received an unsolicited message from a New Heights attendee, Lynn Casey, asking if there were any volunteer opportunities available. The timing couldn't have been more perfect—it felt like a direct answer to prayer. Since then, a faithful group of 5-7 women has stepped in each month to make this newsletter possible.

Each monthly mailing requires careful attention. Newsletters are folded, inserted into larger envelopes along with a reply envelope, sealed, labeled, and sorted into specific postal bins. It's detailed work, but it's done with joy. The monthly gathering has also become a meaningful time of fellowship as these women serve together, faithfully supporting this ministry in a way that is often unseen, yet deeply impactful.

So Far This Year

Community Outreach

Open House Recap

Our You Medical Open House was a wonderful time of connection, encouragement, and community. We had the joy of meeting many new faces while also reconnecting with so many familiar ones who continue to support this mission. It was a great reminder of how many people are invested in serving women and families in our community. Guests enjoyed a self guided tour, experiencing the process our patients encounter when they visit You Medical for services. We are so grateful to everyone who took the time to attend and be part of this special event. A heartfelt thank you goes out to our incredible staff and board members whose hard work made this event possible. Your dedication truly made the day a success.

If you weren't able to join us, we would still love to connect with you. Please reach out to learn more about You Medical and how you can get involved.
